

Extra Credit Opportunity 1

Parody Drawing: Draw a scene or character that Dickens has described in parody. You could show how Mr. Stryver was "much too much of a man" or how Jerry is an "honest tradesman" who accuses his wife of "flopping agin him". This could also be something represented as humorous that stemmed from the book. Maybe Madame Defarge's knitting has filled an entire house, and all of the yarn is exploding out of the windows. Perhaps Carton is listening to T-Swift again in his heartbreak. Maybe Dr. Manette has a pet shoe he speaks to and keeps in his pocket like Lennie's pet mouse. This could also be expressed as a meme.

Extra Credit Opportunity 2

Analysis of any 3 paragraphs in the novel and discuss Dickens' irony, sarcasm, parallelism, repetition, or anaphora. This is to be in essay format but should not be longer than one page. Text must be included in your analysis.

Extra Credit Opportunity 3

Character Texting

To	From	Message(s)	Rationale (Why?)

Think About:

1. What does this text reveal about your character's background?
 2. What does this text reveal about your character's personality?
 3. What does this text reveal about your character's social status?
 4. Does your character's text message reveal more information about him or her than they initially reveal in the novel?
 5. What does this text reveal about your character's involvement in a major plot point?
-